

Turtle Reinforcements - tribunedigital-orlandosentinel

August 17, 1986

1-1 minutes

LIGHTS ON INDIALANTIC'S popular oceanfront boardwalk have become so deadly to endangered sea turtle hatchlings that the Sea Turtle Preservation Society asked environmentalists from Greenpeace to join its fight to get the lights turned out. The man-made lights draw hatchlings away from the ocean; they then often are eaten by predators or baked in the sun.